I'm excited to read her post today. * I was building a deck for my house this summer when I met Karen Giese. I had seen her design work online and her designs seemed to embody an Art Deco style I had been searching for in design. Karen mentioned she knew a lot about home repairs, and I mentioned to her that I was renovating my house. At the time I was living in a townhouse in West Seattle, and Karen said she'd be interested in coming over and doing some of the work for me. The change in my home happened very quickly after she showed up with her tools to do the work. A few weeks later I was on a website and writing about the house. The work Karen Giese did on my house turned it into a home. And soon, another project turned into a home. Karen's work left my home looking beautiful, functional and inviting. My home needed love like she had, and the house I had been living in for a few years, like she had. This is that story. - Ryo Ando); } schema.saveAndRelease(); schema.activateProperties(); schema.commit(); schema.close(); assertEquals(0, error); } finally { 3e33713323
